

Chat log 20 July 2021
The Time of Cholera: A Case Study about Historical Context by Alison Hare, CG

Audience Question:

Q: In case anyone is interested, Masterpiece's Victoria has an amazing episode (Season 3, Episode 4) that does a wonderfully realistic showing of this outbreak.

A: Interesting, thank you.

Audience Question:

Q: Can someone please put those book titles with author's names in the chat box, as the screen changed before I could write them down. Thanks, KarenP

A: Those are listed in the syllabus.

Geoff Rasmussen (to All - Entire Audience): 8:52 PM: Wow! Here's where the replay will be found (shareable with others and free for a week): <https://familytreewebinars.com/bcg>

Audience Question:

Q: Another book that talks about John Snow and written by Steven Johnson was called "How we got to Now". It talks about the outbreak.

A: Thanks

Audience Question:

Q: The Map again by Candance Miller, epidemiologist writing about it:
<https://storymaps.arcgis.com/stories/0746cf7ccae24f5390e8aa92fc3498bf>

A: Thanks

Audience Question:

Q: John Snow and the Broad Street Pump <https://www.ph.ucla.edu/epi/snow/snowcricketarticle.html>

A: Thanks